Arthur Dale Dudney is a PhD candidate in the Department of Middle Eastern, South Asian and African Studies at Columbia University. His research focus is Indo-Persian philological scholarship and emergent vernacular textuality in eighteenth-century northern India. He has a secondary interest in the influence of European Classicism on colonial intellectuals. His personal website is http://www.columbia.edu/~add2115/ .