Prashant Keshavmurthy earned his doctoral degree in Comparative Literature from the department of Middle East and Asian Languages and Cultures in Columbia University in 2009. He is presently Assistant Professor of Persian Studies in the Institute of Islamic Studies in McGill University. His research focuses on ideas of fiction, literary theory and authorship in pre-colonial and colonial Persian-Urdu literary culture.